Re: Suspected fracture of a ceramic femoral head – patient P-UK-6025

Dear Sir or Madam,

My patient (pseudonym P-UK-6025, 55 years) had a left total hip replacement at the Demo Regional Orthopaedic Service (fictional) in Northern Ireland on 20 January 2026. According to the implant card, a Fictivia OA-H32 ceramic head (LOT OA-H32-2511-B) was used.

He reports that on 8 November 2026, while travelling, he felt a loud crack in the hip followed by severe pain and grinding. He was admitted to a local hospital, where a fracture of the ceramic head was diagnosed, and was transferred for revision surgery. I do not yet have the discharge summary, and the patient was unsure which hospital and which part of the UK he was in at the time, as he was travelling between Scotland and Northern Ireland.

I will forward the discharge summary when it arrives.

Yours faithfully,
General Practitioner (fictional role, no name used in the demo)
